Summary

In a referendum held on 23 June 2016, the majority of those who voted chose to leave the European Union.

On 29 March 2017, in writing to European Council President Donald Tusk, the Prime Minister formally triggered Article 50 and began the two-year countdown to the UK formally leaving the EU (commonly known as ‘Brexit’).

The UK had long been expected to leave the European Union at 11pm on 29 March 2019. However, following a House of Commons vote on 14 March 2019, the Government sought permission from the EU to extend Article 50 and agree a later Brexit date.

On 20 March 2019 the Prime Minister wrote to European Council President Donald Tusk, asking to extend Article 50 until 30 June 2019.

Following a European Council meeting the next day, EU27 leaders agreed to grant an extension.

On 2 April 2019, the Prime Minister announced she will seek a further extension to the Article 50 process and offered to meet the Leader of the Opposition to agree a deal that can win the support of MPs.

At a meeting of the European Council on 10 April 2019, the UK and EU27 agreed to extend Article 50 until 31 October 2019.

On 19 October 2019, the Prime Minister’s new Brexit deal was lost on amendment in the Commons. In accordance with the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 2) Act 2019 – commonly known as the ‘Benn Act’ – the Prime Minister wrote to European Council president Donald Tusk, to request an extension to the Brexit process.

On 28 October 2019, EU Ambassadors agreed a further Brexit extension to 31 January 2020.

On 12 December 2019, Boris Johnson won a majority in the UK General Election and reaffirmed his commitment to ‘get Brexit done’ by 31 January 2020.

On 23 January 2020, the European Union (Withdrawal Agreement) Act 2020 received Royal Assent. This is the legislation that will implement the withdrawal agreement negotiated by the UK and the EU.

At 11pm on 31 January 2020, the UK left the EU and entered a transition period.

At 11pm on 31 December 2020, the transition period ended and the United Kingdom left the EU single market and customs union.

This paper provides a timeline of the major events leading up to the referendum and subsequent dates of note, including Brexit Day itself.
1. Events leading up to the EU Referendum on 23 June 2016

Key events

17 December 2015: The European Union Referendum Act receives Royal Assent, providing for a referendum on the UK’s future membership of the EU.

19 October 2015 The Prime Minister makes a statement to Parliament on the previous week’s European Council meeting. He sets out the four things he needs to achieve for the UK’s renegotiation package in the areas of economic governance, competitiveness, sovereignty and social benefits and free movement.

10 November 2015 David Cameron delivers a speech on Europe to Chatham House, setting out the case for EU reform and reaffirming his commitment to an EU referendum before the end of 2017. In a letter to Donald Tusk the Prime Minister sets out the four areas where he is seeking reform as part of negotiations on the UK’s membership of the EU.

17 December 2015 The European Union Referendum Act receives Royal Assent. This provides for the holding of a referendum in the UK and Gibraltar on whether the UK should remain a member of the EU.

2 February 2016 Donald Tusk writes to Members of the European Council on his proposal for a new settlement for the UK within the EU.

The European Council publishes its Draft Decision concerning a ‘New Settlement for the United Kingdom within the European Union’.

3 February 2016 The Prime Minister gives a statement to the House of Commons on the progress made regarding the UK-EU renegotiation.

18-19 February 2016 European Council meeting.

19 February 2016 Following the meeting of the European Council, David Cameron gives a statement outlining his negotiations to secure a deal giving the UK special status in the EU.

22 February 2016 The Prime Minister announces the EU referendum date – 23 June 2016 – after securing a deal on Britain's membership of the EU.

The government publishes The best of both worlds: the United Kingdom’s special status in a reformed European Union.

In the House of Commons, David Cameron makes a statement on the UK’s new special status in the EU and announces the date of the referendum.

11-13 April 2016 Published by the Government on 6 April, an EU referendum leaflet is delivered to every household in the UK, setting out the case for remaining in the EU.

7 November 2016
David Davis gives a Statement to the House of Commons on the process for invoking Article 50.

24 November 2016
Alex Ellis, the current British Ambassador to Brazil, is appointed Director General at the Department for Exiting the European Union and will take up his position in January 2017.

5-8 December 2016
The UK’s Supreme Court hears the Government’s appeal against the High Court ruling that Parliament must vote on whether Article 50 can be triggered. For the first time ever, the Supreme Court sits en banc, meaning that all sitting justices hear the case.

7 December 2016
The House of Commons vote on respecting the outcome of the referendum is passed by a large majority. MPs also call on the Prime Minister to commit to publishing the Government’s plan for leaving the EU before Article 50 is invoked.

3 January 2017
Sir Ivan Rogers, the UK Permanent Representative to the EU, resigns.

4 January 2017
Sir Tim Barrow is appointed as UK Permanent Representative to the EU, taking up the role the following week.

17 January 2017
David Davis gives a statement to the House of Commons on the ‘New Partnership with the EU’. In a speech at Lancaster House the Prime Minister sets out the government’s ‘Plan for Britain’ – the plan for leaving the EU – which includes 12 priorities that the UK Government will use to negotiate Brexit: The government’s negotiating objectives for exiting the EU.

19 January 2017  The Prime Minister writes in The Times Scotland on her plans for the whole of the UK to benefit post-Brexit: “I want an exit that will work for all of us”

Writing in The Sun, Theresa May explains how the Government’s plan for exiting the EU fits into her wider plan for a better Britain: “We will create a fairer society”.

Addressing the World Economic Forum in Davos, Theresa May speaks about her plans for Brexit and a Global Britain: Davos 2017: Prime Minister’s speech.

24 January 2017  The Supreme Court rejects (by a majority of 8 to 3) the Government’s appeal against the November 2016 High Court ruling and states that Ministers “require the authority of primary legislation” in order to give the Article 50 notice.

On the devolution questions raised, the Court unanimously holds that the UK Parliament is not legally required to seek consent from the devolved legislatures.

Responding to the Supreme Court’s ruling, the Government issues the following statement:

“The British people voted to leave the EU, and the government will deliver on their verdict – triggering Article 50, as planned, by the end of March. Today’s ruling does nothing to change that.

It’s important to remember that Parliament backed the referendum by a margin of 6 to 1 and has already indicated its support for getting on with the process of exit to the timetable we have set out.

We respect the Supreme Court’s decision, and will set out our next steps to Parliament shortly”.

David Davis gives a statement to the House of Commons on Article 50, in response to the judgment by the Supreme Court.

26 January 2017  With legislation a requirement following the Supreme Court’s ruling, the Government publishes a draft Bill that will allow the UK to start the process of leaving the EU: The European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill.

The Bill is very short, with only one operative clause:

1. Power to notify withdrawal from the EU

(1) The Prime Minister may notify, under Article 50(2) of the Treaty on European Union, the United Kingdom’s intention to withdraw from the EU.

(2) This section has effect despite any provision made by or under the European Communities Act 1972 or any other enactment.

30 January 2017 Writing in the Irish Times, the Prime Minister sets out the Government’s commitment to the UK’s relationship with the Republic of Ireland: I want Ireland and the UK to have a stronger relationship after Brexit.

1 February 2017 The European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill passes its Second Reading in the House of Commons by 498 votes to 114.

2 February 2017 The Government publishes its Brexit White Paper, formally setting out its strategy for exiting the EU: The United Kingdom’s exit from, and new partnership with, the European Union.

Following publication of the Brexit White Paper, David Davis gives a statement to the House of Commons.

6 February 2017 The Prime Minister gives a statement to Parliament on issues discussed at the informal European Council in Malta: migration, America and Brexit.

7 February 2017 UK ministers hold the first meeting of a new forum dedicated to discussing the implications of Brexit for the Overseas Territories.

8 February 2017 The European Union (Notification of Withdrawal) Bill passes its Third Reading in the House of Commons, by 494 votes to 122.

The Bill now moves to the House of Lords.

31 March 2017 The President of the European Council publishes draft negotiation guidelines for the ‘EU 27’ (the EU members excluding the UK).

6 April 2017 Theresa May meets with Donald Tusk in Downing Street and she reiterates the UK’s desire to ensure a deep and special partnership with the EU following its exit from the Union. The PM also reaffirms the UK’s position on Gibraltar and insists there will be no negotiation on the territory’s sovereignty.

18 April 2017 The Prime Minister calls a General Election to be held on 8 June 2017.

19 April 2017 MPs approve a motion for an Early Parliamentary General Election by 522 votes to 13.

29 April 2017 EU-27 leaders meet at the first summit since the UK officially triggered Article 50. In this Special European Council (Article 50), meeting, the EU-27 nations unanimously adopt guidelines for the Brexit negotiations ahead. The UK Government publishes a ‘Northern Ireland and Ireland Position Paper’, outlining the UK’s position on how to address the unique circumstances of Northern Ireland and Ireland in light of the UK’s withdrawal from – and new partnership with – the EU.

3 May 2017 Dissolution of Parliament at 00:01am.

7 May 2017 Second round of French presidential elections. Pro-European Emmanuel Macron defeats Marine Le Pen to win the French presidency, taking over 66% of the vote.

16 May 2017 The Labour party launches its 2017 General Election manifesto.
In the section on Brexit, the party’s pledges include:

Labour accepts the referendum result and a Labour government will put the national interest first.

We will prioritise jobs and living standards, build a close new relationship with the EU, protect workers’ rights and environmental standards, provide certainty to EU nationals and give a meaningful role to Parliament throughout negotiations.

To scrap the Conservatives’ Brexit White Paper and replace it with fresh negotiating priorities that have a strong emphasis on retaining the benefits of the Single Market and the Customs Union.

A Labour government will immediately guarantee existing rights for all EU nationals living in Britain and secure reciprocal rights for UK citizens who have chosen to make their lives in EU countries.

17 May 2017 The Liberal Democrat Party launches its election manifesto.

On Europe, the Liberal Democrats promise:

When the terms of our future relationship with the EU have been negotiated (over the next two years on the Government’s timetable), we will put that deal to a vote of the British people in a referendum, with the alternative option of staying in the EU on the ballot paper.

To press for the UK to unilaterally guarantee the rights of EU nationals in the UK.

Continued membership of the single market and customs union.

18 May 2017 The Conservative Party launches its manifesto for the upcoming General Election.

The manifesto includes several policies related to Brexit, including the following pledges:

As we leave the European Union, we will no longer be members of the single market or customs union but we will seek a deep and special partnership including a comprehensive free trade and customs agreement.
The final agreement will be subject to a vote in both houses of parliament.

To agree the terms of our future partnership alongside our withdrawal, reaching agreement on both within the two years allowed by Article 50 of the Treaty on European Union.

Once EU law has been converted into domestic law, parliament will be able to pass legislation to amend, repeal or improve any piece of EU law it chooses, as will the devolved legislatures, where they have the power to do so.

8 June 2017 General Election in the UK.
The election results in a hung Parliament, with the Conservatives winning the most seats.

9 June 2017 Theresa May goes to the Queen and later, outside Downing St, announces she is forming a government.

17 June 2017 The government confirms that Parliament will sit for two years instead of the usual one, to give MPs enough time to fully consider the laws required to make Britain ready for Brexit.

19 June 2017 The first round of EU exit negotiations begins.
The UK and the European Commission, representing the EU, agree the Terms of reference for the Article 50 negotiations between the UK and the EU.
Later, David Davis gives a statement following this opening round of the talks.

21 June 2017 State Opening of Parliament. The Queen’s Speech includes a ‘Great Repeal Bill’ in the Government’s legislative programme and other Brexit-related Bills. The Queen announces:

“A Bill will be introduced to repeal the European Communities Act and provide certainty for individuals and businesses. This will be complemented by legislation to ensure that the United Kingdom makes a success of Brexit, establishing new national policies on immigration, international sanctions, nuclear safeguards, agriculture and fisheries.

My Government will seek to maintain a deep and special partnership with European allies and to forge new trading relationships across the globe. New Bills on trade and customs will help to implement an independent trade policy, and support will be given to help British businesses export to markets around the world.”

In a Debate on the Address following the Queen’s Speech, the Prime Minister gives a brief outline of Brexit-related Bills:

The first part of this Queen’s Speech is of course about Brexit—a Brexit deal that works for every part of the country and commands the greatest possible public support. Over 80% of the electorate backed the two major parties, both of which campaigned on manifestos that said that we should honour the democratic decision of the British people, so this Government will respect the will of the British people and see Brexit through. We will seek to build a wide consensus as we do this and as we take Bills through the House, including a trade Bill, a repeal Bill, and an immigration Bill, as has been referred to, and also a Bill to deal with control of access to our waters for fishermen and a new Bill on agriculture to give greater stability to farmers.

23 June 2017

The Prime Minister gives a press statement on a number of subjects covered at the European Council June 2017 meeting, including giving reassurance to EU citizens living in the UK.

26 June 2017

Theresa May gives a statement to Parliament following the weekend’s European Council. This Council followed the formal start of the negotiations for the UK’s departure from the EU and comes on the first anniversary of the referendum that led to that decision.

In her statement, the Prime Minister outlines several points with regards to the rights of EU citizens living in the UK.

In conjunction with this statement, the government publishes a policy paper on the rights of EU citizens in the UK and UK nations in the EU.

David Davis opens the Queen’s Speech debate on “Brexit and Foreign Affairs.”

11 July 2017  David Davis gives evidence to the Lords EU Committee for its inquiry on scrutiny of the Brexit negotiations.

13 July 2017  The Government introduces the European Union (Withdrawal) Bill.

Ahead of the second round of exit negotiations the following week, the Government also publishes position papers laying out the UK’s approach on:

- Ongoing Union Judicial and Administrative Proceedings
- Nuclear materials and safeguards issues
- Privileges and Immunities

The Government publishes a technical note considering how the UK’s withdrawal agreement with the EU should be implemented in UK law.

14 July 2017  The second round of EU exit negotiations begins.

20 July 2017  At the conclusion of the second round of talks, David Davis makes a statement.

10 August 2017  Brexit Minister Robin Walker completes a three-day tour of the Crown Dependencies, having discussed the implications of Brexit with the Chief Ministers of Jersey, Guernsey and the Isle of Man.

15 August 2017  In the first of a series of papers on the UK’s future partnership with the EU, the Government sets out proposals for a future customs relationship.
16 August 2017  The Government publishes a position paper on Northern Ireland and Ireland, proposing no physical infrastructure at the border.

21 August 2017  Ahead of the third round of exit negotiations, the Government publishes position papers outlining the UK’s negotiating approach to goods on the market and to confidentiality and access to the official documents.

22 August 2017  The Government publishes a future partnership paper outlining the UK’s position on providing a cross-border civil judicial cooperation framework.

23 August 2017  A future partnership paper discussing options for enforcement and dispute resolution mechanisms for UK-EU agreements is published by the Government.

24 August 2017  In the latest of a series of papers looking at the UK’s partnership with the EU post-Brexit, the Government outlines proposals for a shared approach on data protection.

31 August 2017  At the conclusion of the third round of exit talks, David Davis gives a statement.

5 September 2017  David Davis gives a statement to the House of Commons on EU exit negotiations, updating Members on the July and August negotiating rounds.

6 September 2017  The government publishes a future partnership paper outlining the UK’s objectives for continued collaboration on science and innovation.

7, 11 September 2017  The European Union (Withdrawal) Bill has its Second Reading: Day One; Day Two.

12 September 2017  After the EU Withdrawal Bill passes its Second Reading, the Prime Minister says:

“Earlier this morning Parliament took a historic decision to back the will of the...
British people and vote for a bill which gives certainty and clarity ahead of our withdrawal from the European Union.

Although there is more to do, this decision means we can move on with negotiations with solid foundations and we continue to encourage MPs from all parts of the UK to work together in support of this vital piece of legislation."

The Government publishes its latest future partnership paper, outlining the UK’s objectives on foreign policy, defence and development.

4 December 2018  MPs hold the first of a planned five days of debates on the Withdrawal Agreement and the UK-EU future relationship.

5 December 2018  Following a Motion passed in the House of Commons, the Government publishes the Attorney General’s legal advice to Cabinet on the Protocol on Ireland/Northern Ireland. This is the full, final advice that the Attorney General provided to Cabinet on 14 November on the legal effect of the Withdrawal Agreement.

The Prime Minister has a telephone call with the Irish Taoiseach to discuss progress made in the Brexit negotiations, specifically the backstop and the UK’s commitment to the Good Friday Agreement.

Day 2 of House of Commons debates on the Withdrawal Agreement and the future UK-EU relationship.

Theresa May suffers three Brexit defeats in the Commons and the Government is also found to be in contempt of Parliament.

6 December 2018 The Prime Minister announces the formation of five new business councils to advise on how to create the best business conditions in the UK post-Brexit.

Day 3 of House of Commons debates on the Withdrawal Agreement and the future UK-EU relationship.

10 December 2018 The CJEU issues its judgment on the Wightman case, finding unilateral revocation of Article 50 TEU is a sovereign right for any Member State to pursue.

The Prime Minister gives a statement to the House of Commons on Exiting the European Union and announces a delay to the Meaningful Vote, originally planned for the following day.

Later, Stephen Barclays (Secretary of State for Exiting the EU) makes a statement to the House of Commons in response to the CJEU’s ruling on the Wightman Article 50 case.

11 December 2018 The Chair of the Home Affairs Committee, Yvette Cooper, is granted an Urgent Question on the Government’s duty under Section 13 of the EU (Withdrawal) Act 2018 should no deal be reached by 21 January 2019.

Junior Brexit Minister Robin Walker, responding to the Urgent Question, insists “the Government will ensure that the question whether to accept an agreement is brought back to this House before 21 January”, adding “If Parliament were to reject the deal, the Government would be required to make a statement on our proposed next steps and table a motion in neutral terms on that statement”.

The House of Commons later holds an opposition-led Emergency Debate on the Government’s management of the meaningful vote debate.

15 January 2019  The ‘Meaningful Vote’ takes place, with the government suffering a huge defeat, losing the vote by a majority of 230 (with 202 voting in favour of the Prime Minister’s Brexit deal and 432 against).

16 January 2019  In the House of Commons, MPs debate a motion of no confidence in the Government. The Prime Minister wins the vote of confidence (325 votes to 306) and then uses a point of order to pledge to work with Parliamentarians and other political parties in order to find solutions that will gain the support of the House.

The Prime Minister later gives a statement at Downing Street, inviting all parties to come together to find a way forward.

21 January 2019  Theresa May gives a statement to the House of Commons, presenting the government’s ‘Plan B’ and outlining the six key issues that have been at the centre of cross-party talks.

23 January 2019  The Prime Minister meets with the First Ministers of Scotland and Wales as part of ongoing discussions to find a consensus around the terms of the UK’s exit from the EU.

24 January 2019  In response to an Urgent Question, the Minister for Trade Policy gives a statement to the House of Commons on EU Free Trade Agreements.

29 January 2019  The Prime Minister opens the House of Commons debate on her ‘Plan B’ deal. The Speaker selects seven amendments for debate, all of which are moved. Two amendments are approved, indicating that a majority of MPs are a) against exiting the EU without a deal, and b) against the Northern Ireland backstop in its current form. Following the series of votes on the amendments, the main question (as amended) was put and agreed to. Theresa May uses a point of order to give her response to the evening’s votes and the amended Brexit deal.

30 January 2019  European Commission President Jean-Claude Juncker and the EU’s Chief Negotiator on Brexit, Michel Barnier, give speeches at the Plenary session of the European Parliament, updating MEPs on the Brexit negotiations and reaffirming their support for the Withdrawal Agreement.

5 February 2019  The Prime Minister gives a speech in Belfast and outlines her thoughts on changing the Northern Ireland backstop and re-opening the Withdrawal Agreement in her negotiations with the EU.

7 February 2019  Theresa May meets President Juncker in Brussels, to review the next steps in the Brexit process.

President Juncker makes clear the EU27 will not reopen the Withdrawal Agreement, but expresses his openness to add wording to the Political Declaration.

8 February 2019  The UK reaches an agreement with Norway, Iceland and Liechtenstein (the EEA EFTA states) to protect citizens’ rights in a ‘no deal’ scenario.

12 February 2019  Theresa May gives a statement to the House of Commons on the “Government’s ongoing work to secure a Brexit deal that honours our commitments to the people of Northern Ireland, commands the support of Parliament, and can be negotiated with the EU”.

The Prime Minister confirms that if there is no deal negotiated by 26 February 2019, then the government will make a statement on the same day and hold a debate on an amendable motion the following day (27 February 2019).

The Prime Minister’s statement is repeated and debated in the House of Lords.

13 February 2019  The International Trade Secretary (Dr Liam Fox MP) responds to an urgent question on the progress made in replicating trade agreements between the UK and third countries with which the EU has a trade agreement.

Members of the House of Lords debate the government’s ongoing Brexit discussions.

Baroness Smith of Basildon (the Leader of the Opposition in the Lords) proposes a motion calling on the government to take all steps necessary to ensure that the UK does not leave the EU on 29 March without an agreement that has been fully ratified by both Houses of Parliament, and that — before the end of February 2019 — motions are moved which fulfil the provisions under sections 13(1)(b) and (c) of the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018.

The motion is agreed, with 155 votes in favour and 69 against.

14 February 2019 Opening the Brexit debate, Stephen Barclay gives a statement to the House of Commons, asking for the continued support of the House in negotiating the UK’s exit from the EU, in accordance with the approach that won a majority of MPs on 29 January 2019.

Several amendments to the governments motion are made, with the Speaker selecting three.

The official Opposition amendment – aiming to set a deadline for another ‘meaningful vote’ – is defeated by 322 votes to 306.

The SNP amendment – requiring that the Government immediately begin negotiations for an extension to Article 50 – is defeated by 315 to 93.

Anna Soubry’s amendment – requiring that the Government publish its most recent no-deal briefing documents – is withdrawn, after the government offers to release ‘no deal’ information.

The unamended motion sees the government defeated by a majority of 45, losing by 303 votes to 258.

20 February 2019 The Prime Minister and President Juncker meet to discuss the Northern Ireland backstop and commit to avoiding a hard border on the island of Ireland.

25 February 2019 The UK signs an agreement with Switzerland to protect citizens’ rights after the UK leaves the EU.

The Labour Party announces it will be prepared to back a second referendum if its withdrawal plan is rejected by MPs this week.

26 February 2019 Theresa May gives a statement to the House of Commons, promising MPs a vote on delaying the UK’s departure from the EU or ruling out a no-deal Brexit, if she loses the second ‘meaningful vote’ next month.
The Prime Minister’s statement is repeated and debated in the House of Lords.

27 February 2019

David Lidington (Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster and Minister for the Cabinet Office) leads a House of Commons debate on the UK’s withdrawal from the EU.

The Speaker selects five amendments to the government’s motion. MPs divide three times during the debate and a fourth amendment passes without a division.

The Opposition amendment – laying out support for Labour’s alternative Brexit plan – is defeated by 323 votes to 240.

The SNP amendment – stating that the UK should not leave the EU without a deal “under any circumstances” – is defeated by 324 votes to 288.

Alberto Costa’s amendment – guaranteeing the citizens’ rights part of the withdrawal agreement be implemented even if there is no deal – is approved without division.

Yvette Cooper’s amendment – noting the Prime Minister’s statement that she will return to the House of Commons in March for a series of votes on her deal, the prospect of leaving without a deal, and extending Article 50 – is passed by 502 votes to 20.

Meanwhile, members of the House of Lords debate a motion “to take note of the further discussions with the European Union under Article 50 of the Treaty on European Union”.

6 March 2019

During a debate on the Trade Bill in the House of Lords, the government is defeated over an amendment that would oblige Britain to seek to remain in a customs union with the EU post-Brexit, by 207 votes to 141.

8 March 2019

The Prime Minister delivers a Brexit speech in Grimsby and writes an article in the Grimsby Telegraph, asking MPs to support her in next week’s Meaningful Vote. Referring to her Brexit deal, she writes:

Back it, and the UK will leave the European Union. Reject it and we do not know what the consequences will be. We may not leave the EU for many months; we may leave without the protections that the deal provides; or we may never leave at all.

11 March 2019
Junior Brexit Minister Robin Walker responds to an Urgent Question on legal changes to the EU Withdrawal Agreement.

Theresa May travels to Strasbourg to meet Jean-Claude Juncker and Michel Barnier. In a statement following the meeting, the Prime Minister says she has secured “legally binding” changes to her Brexit deal.

On the eve of the second Meaningful Vote, David Lidington gives a statement to the House of Commons on Exiting the European Union.

12 March 2019
The Attorney-General gives a statement to the House of Commons on his “legal opinion on the joint instrument and unilateral declaration concerning the withdrawal agreement”, published the previous evening.

The Prime Minister open a House of Commons debate on the European Union (Withdrawal) Act.

Following the debate, the ‘Meaningful Vote 2’ vote takes place. The government suffers a large defeat, losing the vote by a majority of 149 (with 242 voting in favour of the Prime Minister’s Brexit deal and 391 against).

Following this vote, Theresa May uses a point of order to express her disappointment in the outcome of the vote and confirms she will open the debate the next day on whether to take ‘no-deal’ off the negotiating table.

Further to the PM’s announcement, the Leader of the House makes a short business statement, outlining the business for the following day and the remainder of the week.

13 March 2019
In a statement to the European Parliament Plenary Session, Michel Barnier says “last night’s vote in the House of Commons prolongs and worsens the major uncertainty that was created almost three years ago now by the sovereign decision – which we respect but regret –of the United Kingdom to leave the European Union.” He adds that it is the UK’s responsibility to find way out of the impasse in negotiations.
Looking ahead to House of Commons votes over the next couple of days, Barnier says: “It will be for the British government to tell us – I hope positively – how it wishes to proceed, to finally bring together a constructive majority for a proposal. It is the UK’s responsibility to tell us what it wants for our future relationship, what its choice is, what its clear line is”

MPs again debate the UK’s Withdrawal from the European Union.

The Speaker selects two amendments to the Government’s motion, both of which go to a division.

Dame Caroline Spelman’s amendment (moved by Yvette Cooper) – ruling out a ‘no-deal Brexit’ at any time – is passed by 312 votes to 308.

While this result demonstrates the will of MPs, it is not a binding amendment and does not definitively rule out a no-deal Brexit.

Damian Green’s amendment (known as the ‘Malthouse Compromise’) – setting out the process for a managed no-deal – is rejected by a majority of 210, with 164 votes in favour and 374 against.

The day’s final vote sees MPs voting on the government’s amended no-deal Brexit motion: “That this House rejects the United Kingdom leaving the European Union without a Withdrawal Agreement and a Framework for the Future Relationship”. The motion is passed by 321 votes to 278.

Following this vote, the Prime Minister uses a point of order to acknowledge MPs have provided a clear majority against leaving the EU without a deal, but reaffirms her view that “the deal on the table is indeed the only deal available.” She confirms that the Government will bring forward a motion tomorrow on whether the House supports seeking to agree an extension to Article 50 with the EU.

This is confirmed in a short business statement by the Leader of the House.

14 March 2019 MPs debate the UK’s Withdrawal from the EU.
The Speaker selects five amendments to the government’s motion, four of which go to division.

Dr Sarah Wollaston’s amendment – requesting an extension of Article 50 in order for a second referendum to take place – is rejected by 334 votes to 85.

Lucy Powell’s amendment (itself an amendment to Hilary Benn’s amendment) – specifying that any extension to the Brexit process should end by 30 June 2019 – is defeated by three votes: 314 to 311.

Hilary Benn’s amendment – allowing MPs to take control of the Parliamentary business on 20 March, potentially to hold indicative (non-binding) votes – is narrowly rejected, by 314 votes to 312.

Jeremy Corbyn’s Opposition amendment – rejecting both the Prime Minister’s deal and a ‘no-deal’ Brexit, while also seeking an extension of Article 50 to allow time to find a different approach – is defeated by 318 votes to 302.

Chris Bryant’s amendment – saying the Government cannot bring the same deal to MPs for a third ‘Meaningful Vote’ – is not moved.

The day’s final vote sees MPs voting on the government’s amended motion – to seek permission from the EU to delay Brexit beyond 29 March 2019. This motion is passed by 413 votes to 202.

15 March 2019

Theresa May issues a Written Statement, noting the motions of the House of Commons over the previous two days and confirming that “the Government will now seek to agree an extension with the EU”.

The Statement also states:

As soon as possible following agreement at the EU level [expected during the European Council meeting on 21-22 March] the we will bring forward the necessary legislation to amend the definition of exit day in domestic legislation. This statutory instrument will be laid, before it is made, under section 20(4) of the EU (Withdrawal) Act 2018.

This legislation is subject to the draft affirmative procedure and so would need to be actively approved in each House. The legislation would give effect to any agreement with the EU on an extension, so would not be laid before Parliament until that agreement had been reached.

17 March 2019 In an article for the Sunday Telegraph, the Prime Minister writes: “The patriotic thing for MPs to do is vote for my Brexit deal”.

18 March 2019 The Speaker of the House of Commons makes a statement in the Chamber, ahead of a third ‘Meaningful Vote’ that is expected over the coming days.

In this statement, the Speaker says a further meaningful vote would be ruled out of order if the motion was “the same or substantially the same”, concluding:

If the Government wish to bring forward a new proposition that is neither the same nor substantially the same as that disposed of by the House on 12 March, that would be entirely in order. What the Government cannot legitimately do is to resubmit to the House the same proposition or substantially the same proposition as that of last week, which was rejected by 149 votes. This ruling should not be regarded as my last word on the subject; it is simply meant to indicate the test which the Government must meet in order for me to rule that a third meaningful vote can legitimately be held in this parliamentary Session.

Later, the Speaker grants an Urgent Question on the Government’s plans in relation to the Article 50 period extension procedure.

20 March 2019 The Prime Minister writes to European Council President Donald Tusk, asking for an extension of the Article 50 period until 30 June 2019.

In Prime Minister’s Questions, Theresa May updates the House on the planned extension to Article 50 and a third ‘meaningful vote’, saying:

I have this morning written to President Tusk, the President of the European Council, informing him that the UK seeks an extension to the article 50 period until 30 June.

The Government intend to bring forward proposals for a third meaningful vote. If that vote is passed, the extension will give the House time to consider the withdrawal agreement Bill. If not, the House will have to decide how to proceed. But as Prime Minister I am not prepared to delay Brexit any further than 30 June.

Following PMQs, Brexit Minister Chris Heaton-Harris responds to an Urgent Question on no-deal Brexit preparations.

The House of Commons later holds an opposition-led Emergency Debate on extending Article 50.

Donald Tusk issues a statement following Theresa May’s Brexit extension request, saying:

I believe that a short extension will be possible, but it will be conditional on a positive vote on the withdrawal agreement in the House of Commons. We cannot give up seeking - until the very last moment - a positive solution.

In the evening the Prime Ministers delivers a statement from Downing St, setting out her hopes for the forthcoming Brexit negotiations.

21 March 2019 The European Council meets in Brussels, with an extension to Article 50 a key part of the agenda.

The Prime Minister makes her case in a 90-minute presentation, before the remaining EU27 leaders hold discussions late into the night.

After eight hours of talks, the European Council agrees to an extension of Article 50, meaning Brexit will no longer happen on 29 March 2019.

The European Council conclusions explain:

The European Council agrees to an extension until 22 May 2019, provided the Withdrawal Agreement is approved by the House of Commons next week. If the Withdrawal Agreement is not approved by the House of Commons next week, the European Council agrees to an extension until 12 April 2019 and expects the United Kingdom to indicate a way forward before this date for consideration by the European Council.

Following the conclusion of discussions, the Prime Minister delivers a statement at the European Council.
Donald Tusk later remarks on the outcome of the talks.

The Speaker selects eight motions to be put to an ‘indicative vote’ and MPs debate these motions.

Early in the evening, when addressing the 1922 Committee, Theresa May suggests she will stand down before the second stage of Brexit negotiations (on the future UK-EU relationship), reportedly telling Conservative MPs:

I have heard very clearly the mood of the parliamentary party. I know there is a desire for a new approach - and new leadership – in the second phase of the Brexit negotiations and I won’t stand in the way of that.

Later, while the indicative votes are recorded, MPs debate the statutory instrument changing the date of Brexit as set out in the EU (Withdrawal) Act. The SI is approved in the Commons, with 441 votes in favour and 105 against.

The results of the eight indicative votes are announced:

John Baron’s “No deal” motion – proposing leaving the EU without a deal on 12 April – is defeated by 400 votes to 160.

Nick Boles’s “common market 2.0” motion – allowing continued participation in the Single Market and a “comprehensive customs arrangement” with the EU post-Brexit (until the agreement of a wider trade deal guaranteeing frictionless movement of goods and an open border in Ireland) – is defeated by 283 votes to 189.

George Eustice’s “EFTA and EEA” motion – proposing remaining within the EEA and re-joining EFTA, but remaining outside a customs union with the EU – is defeated by 377 votes to 64.

Ken Clarke’s “Customs union” motion – requiring a commitment to negotiate a “permanent and comprehensive UK-wide customs union with the EU” in any Brexit deal – is defeated by 271 votes to 265.

Jeremy Corbyn’s “Labour’s alternative plan” motion – proposing a close economic relationship with the EU – is defeated by 307 votes to 237.
Joanna Cherry’s “Revocation to avoid no deal” motion – requiring the government to stage a vote on a no-deal Brexit two sitting days before the scheduled date of departure, should the government not have passed its withdrawal agreement; if MPs then refuse to authorise no-deal, the prime minister is required to halt Brexit by revoking Article 50 – is defeated by 293 votes to 184.

Margaret Beckett’s “Confirmatory public vote” motion – requiring a public vote to confirm any Brexit deal passed by Parliament before its ratification – is defeated by 295 votes to 268.

Marcus Fysh’s “Contingent preferential arrangements” motion – calling for the government to seek to agree preferential trade arrangements with the EU if the UK is unable to implement a withdrawal agreement – is defeated by 422 votes to 139.

28 March 2019 Andrea Leadsom (Leader of the House of Commons) announces the House will sit on 29 March to debate the government’s Brexit deal.

29 March 2019 Writing for the Washington Post, the Foreign Secretary (Jeremy Hunt) says the UK will retain all the capabilities of a global power post-Brexit. MPs debate the UK’s withdrawal from the EU.

At the close of the debate, the government loses a vote on the motion (‘Meaningful Vote 3’ – or MV 2.5, as it has also been called) by 344 votes to 286.

Following this vote, Theresa May uses a point of order to outline the implications of the votes.

1 April 2019 MPs debate Oliver Letwin’s business motion for the indicative votes process. This later passes by 322 votes to 277.

The Speaker selects four motions to be put to an ‘indicative vote’ and MPs debate these motions.

Meanwhile, in Westminster Hall, MPs debate a series of e-petitions relating to leaving the European Union.

Later, the results of the four indicative votes are announced:
Ken Clarke’s “Custom union” motion – requiring any Brexit plan to include a commitment to negotiate a “permanent and comprehensive UK-wide customs union with the EU” – is narrowly defeated by 276 votes to 273.

Nick Boles’s “Common Market 2.0” motion – proposing UK membership of EFTA and the EEA and allowing continued participation in the Single Market and a “comprehensive customs arrangement” with the EU post-Brexit, including a “UK say” on future EU trade deals – is defeated by 282 votes to 261.

Peter Kyle’s “Confirmatory public vote” motion – requiring a public vote to confirm any Brexit deal passed by Parliament before its ratification – is defeated by 292 votes to 280.

Joanna Cherry’s “Parliamentary Supremacy” motion – seeking an extension to the Brexit process or, should this not be possible, providing for Parliament to choose between either ‘no deal’ or revoking Article 50 – is defeated by 292 votes to 191.

2 April 2019

Yvette Cooper’s European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 5) Bill – seeking to further extend Article 50 – has its First Reading in the House of Commons.

Following a lengthy Cabinet meeting, the Prime Minister makes a statement from Downing Street, announcing that she will seek a further extension of Article 50 and offering to sit down with the Leader of the Opposition in order to agree a Brexit plan that will win parliamentary approval.

3 April 2019

At the European Parliament’s plenary session, President Juncker gives a speech to update MEPs on the Brexit negotiations.

MPs debate the business motion for the day’s proceedings in the Commons. This is to allow MPs to pass the Commons stages of Yvette Cooper’s bill by 10pm and provide time for further debate when it returns from the House of Lords.

Hilary Benn’s amendment – to allow a further series of indicative votes the following Monday – goes to division. The result is a tie with 310 votes on each side; citing precedence, the Speaker uses his casting vote to side with the noes. This final vote is, therefore, 311 against and 310 in favour.

The main business motion – setting out the arrangements to the afternoon’s debate on the Cooper bill – is then passed by a majority of one: 312 votes to 311.

Yvette Cooper’s European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 5) Bill passes its Second Reading debate by 315 votes to 310.

The Bill goes to its next stage: Committee of the whole House.

Meanwhile, the Prime Minister holds formal discussions with the Leader of the Opposition.

Back in the Chamber, George Eustice’s amendment – preventing the government from being forced to hold a vote if the European Council proposes an extension date that is different than that requested by Parliament – is defeated by 313 votes to 304.

The Government’s amendment – ensuring the bill does not limit the power of the Brexit secretary in seeking an Article 50 extension – suffers a heavy defeat, with 400 votes against the amendment and 220 in favour.

Amendment 1 – limiting any extension to 22 May 2019 – is defeated by 488 votes to 123.

The bill passes its Third Reading by just one vote: 313 to 312.

4 April 2019

The European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 5) Bill passes its First and Second Readings in the House of Lords.

The government and opposition hold further talks on breaking the Brexit impasse.

5 April 2019

Theresa May writes to Donald Tusk, asking for a further extension to Article 50 until 30 June 2019. The letter also states the Government is making preparations should the UK have to take part in the forthcoming European Parliament elections.

6 April 2019

The Prime Minister gives a speech on the Brexit negotiations. She announces a further visit to Brussels to seek another short extension to Article 50.

7 April 2019
Theresa May releases a video statement from 10 Downing Street. She says Brexit must be delivered and that Parliament must pass a withdrawal deal for that to happen.

8 April 2019
The Cabinet Office confirms that the government has taken the necessary legal step for EP elections to be held in the UK. It has laid a statutory instrument called a Day of Poll Order. This provides returning officers with a date to hold potential European parliamentary elections, though participation in EP elections is not inevitable. The Day of Poll Order sets the date for EP elections as Thursday 23 May.

The government and opposition hold further talks on breaking the Brexit impasse.

The European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 5) Bill passes its Committee Stage and Third Reading in the House of Lords.

The Bill returns to the House of Commons for consideration of Lords amendments. MPs pass this bill, designed to prevent a no-deal Brexit.

The Bill later receives Royal Assent, becoming the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 5) Act.

9 April 2019
EU ministers attend a meeting of the EU’s General Affairs Council in Luxembourg, with Brexit on the agenda ahead of European Council on 10 April.

Ahead of the European Council, the Prime Minister meets German Chancellor Angela Merkel for a working lunch in Berlin and they discuss the UK’s request for an extension to Article 50.

Later the Prime Minister flies to Paris for talks with French President Emmanuel Macron.

In the House of Commons, MPs debate the motion backing the Prime Minister’s plan to request an Article 50 extension. This debate is a consequence of Yvette Cooper’s bill being passed on 9 April.

The Government wins the vote on requesting an Article 50 extension until 30 June by a majority of 310: 420 votes to 110.
Donald Tusk writes to EU leaders, asking them to offer the UK a flexible extension to the Article 50 process of up to one year.

21 May 2019  The Prime Minister delivers a speech on her new Brexit deal. This ‘New Brexit Deal’ includes a ten-point offer to MPs. These points are:

1. the Government will seek to conclude Alternative Arrangements to replace the Ireland/Northern Ireland backstop by December 2020, so that it never needs to be used.

2. a commitment that, should the backstop come into force, the Government will ensure that Great Britain will stay aligned with Northern Ireland.

3. the negotiating objectives and final treaties for our future relationship with the EU will have to be approved by MPs.

4. a new Workers’ Rights Bill that guarantees workers’ rights will be no less favourable than in the EU.
5 there will be no change in the level of environmental protection when we leave the EU.

6 the UK will seek as close to frictionless trade in goods with the EU as possible while outside the Single Market and ending free movement.

7 we will keep up to date with EU rules for goods and agri-food products that are relevant to checks at the border, protecting thousands of jobs that depend on just-in-time supply chains.

8 the Government will bring forward a customs compromise for MPs to decide on to break the deadlock.

9 there will be a vote for MPs on whether the deal should be subject to a referendum.

Withdrawal Agreement and on Northern Ireland.

The Prime Minister writes to EU Council President Donald Tusk. Here, the PM outlines his first proposal – since he took office – for how the Brexit deal might be renegotiated and how the backstop might be replaced.

21 August 2019 Boris Johnson travels to Berlin for talks with Angela Merkel.

The German Chancellor suggests an alternative to the Irish border backstop could be found within 30 days.

22 August 2019 The Prime Minister meets President Macron in Paris.

2 September 2019 Hilary Benn publishes the text of the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 6) Bill, presented with support from opposition parties and some Conservatives.

The bill sets two new deadlines:

19 October 2019 – the date by which the Prime Minister would have to either: get MPs to pass a withdrawal agreement; get MPs to pass a motion agreeing to a no-deal Brexit; write to the EU requesting an extension to article 50.

The text of the letter that would have to be sent to the president of the European council requesting an extension is set out in a schedule to the bill and contains the second deadline:

31 January 2020 – the new date for the UK’s withdrawal from the EU, if the extension proposed in the bill were granted by the EU.

The bill says Brexit could happen sooner, if both sides agree a deal after 19 October but before 31 January. It does not, however, say what would happen if there were still no agreement by the end of January.

Speaking outside 10 Downing St, the Prime Minister commits to the UK leaving the EU on 31 October 2019.

3 September 2019 Parliament returns from the Summer Recess.

Oliver Letwin is granted an Emergency Debate on European Union (Withdrawal). The motion is passed and allows opposition MPs (with support from some Conservatives) to take control of Commons business, in order to pass Hilary Benn’s European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 6) Bill.

MPs later back the motion to allow a debate on the Benn bill tomorrow by 328 votes to 301.

21 Tory MPs vote with the opposition and later have the whip removed.

Following the vote, the Prime Minister uses a Point of Order to confirm the government will be tabling a motion under the Fixed-term Parliaments Act 2011, to hold a general election should the Benn bill be passed by the Commons tomorrow.

4 September 2019

MPs debate the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 6) Bill and the bill passes its Second Reading and Committee stages.

Following this, the Prime Minister moves a motion to hold an early General Election. The motion is defeated. [Although a majority voted in favour (298 votes to 56), this is below the required number of votes (434) under the Fixed-term Parliaments Act 2011.]

5 September 2019

The House of Lords debate the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 6) Bill, where it passes the Second Reading.

11 September 2019  The Court of Session in Scotland rules that the Prime Minister’s decision to prorogue parliament for five weeks was unlawful. The government publishes Operation Yellowhammer, the document outlining the possible consequences of a no-deal Brexit.

14-17 September 2019  The Liberal Democrat Party conference takes place.

16 September 2019  The Prime Minister meets with President Juncker in Luxembourg. The Brexit Secretary and Michel Barnier are also in attendance. Luxembourg’s Prime Minister, Xavier Bettel, later criticises Boris Johnson’s approach to Brexit, at what was supposed to be a press conference for both leaders (the British PM pulled out of the conference.)

17 September 2019  The Supreme Court in London begins a three-day hearing into a case brought by Gina Miller, arguing that to prorogue Parliament in the current circumstances is “an unlawful abuse of power”.

18 September 2019  The European Parliament holds a debate on Brexit. MEPs adopt a resolution confirming the new European Parliament’s support for the current EU approach ahead of the next European Council summit in October.

19 September 2019  Brexit Secretary Steve Barclays gives a speech at an event in Madrid. He reiterates the government’s hopes to reach a Brexit agreement and addresses the Northern Ireland backstop.

21-25 September 2019  The Labour Party conference takes place.

22 September 2019  Writing in the Sunday Telegraph, the Foreign Secretary looks ahead to a post-Brexit UK and says the country is leading by example as a force for good in the world.

that the Official Journal would be amended to record that Parliament had simply adjourned.
24 September 2019  The Supreme Court passes a unanimous judgment into Gina Miller’s case, ruling “the decision to advise Her Majesty to prorogue Parliament was unlawful because it had the effect of frustrating or preventing the ability of Parliament to carry out its constitutional functions without reasonable justification.”

The Speaker of the House of Commons welcomes the Supreme Court decision and announces that the Commons will sit at 11:30am the following day.

The Prime Minister says he strongly disagrees with the judgment, and that “we in the UK will not be deterred from getting on and delivering on the will of the people to come out of the EU on October 31st”.

25 September 2019  Parliament sits once again. Opening proceedings in the Commons, Speaker Bercow announces that the chamber had been adjourned since 9 September and not prorogued:

I will arrange for the citation for that judgment to be entered in the Journal of this House and accordingly direct that the item relating to the Prorogation of Parliament in the Journal of Monday 9 September is expunged and the House is instead recorded as adjourned at the close of the business. I instruct the Clerk to correct the Journal accordingly and to record the House to have adjourned at the close of business on Monday 9 September until today.

Michael Gove, Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster, later gives a statement on the government’s Brexit preparations and the steps being taken to be ready for any eventuality: Brexit Readiness: Operation Yellowhammer.

In the evening, the Prime Minister makes a statement to the House, following the Supreme Court ruling the previous day.

26 September 2019  Ian Murray MP is granted an Urgent Question, to ask the Prime Minister if he will make a statement on compliance with the European Union (Withdrawal) (No. 2) Act 2019.

MPs later reject a government motion to allow a short Adjournment period for the

At a press conference in Stockholm, Ireland’s Taoiseach, Leo Varadkar, identifies two ‘major obstacles’ with Boris Johnson’s plan:

> The first is the proposal on customs. I don’t fully understand how we can have Northern Ireland and the Republic of Ireland in a separate customs union and somehow avoid there being tariffs and checks and customs posts between North and South. We need to tease that through.

> Secondly, the issue of consent and democracy is important. I said before any consent mechanism must reflect the views of the majority of people of Ireland and Northern Ireland and no one party, not my party, not Sinn Fein, not the DUP, should be in a position to veto what would be the will of the majority of Northern Ireland or Ireland.

He adds:

> I think if we end up in a no-deal scenario, it may be the case that we have to live with no deal for a period of time. Ireland will do what is necessary to protect the single market and ensure our place in the single market is protected, protecting our jobs and economy and prosperity.’

Mr Varadkar concluded: ‘Having to do that for a period of time while we negotiate a deal or while we pursue other solutions is very different to an Irish Government actually signing up in an international treaty putting in place checks between North and South and that is something that we can not contemplate.’

| 19 October 2019    | Boris Johnson gives a statement to the House of Commons on his new deal. The Speaker selects Sir Oliver Letwin’s amendment for debate, as well as Peter Kyle’s amendment to the second motion. The Letwin amendment passes by 322 votes to 306. Following this vote, the Prime Minister uses a point of order to set out how the Government intends to proceed. He says:

I continue in the very strong belief that the best thing for the UK and the whole of Europe is for us to leave with this new deal on 31 October.

Next week, the Government will introduce the legislation needed for us to leave the EU with our new deal on 31 October.

In the evening, the Prime Minister writes to European Council president Donald Tusk, in accordance with the Benn Act. In fact, a total of three letters are sent: an unsigned photocopy of the request he was obliged to send under the Benn Act; an explanatory letter from the UK’s ambassador to the EU; and a personal letter explaining why Downing Street does not want an extension. |
| 21 October 2019    | The Speaker of the House of Commons makes a statement in the Chamber, ruling that the motion tabled by the government for debate today “is the same in substance as that which was decided on Saturday [19 October],” adding, “Page 397 of “Erskine May” is clear that such a motion ‘may not be brought forward again during that same session.’”

Jeremy Corbyn is granted an Urgent Question, asking if the Prime Minister will make a statement on the publication of the European Union (Withdrawal Agreement) Bill and his letter of 19 October to the European Council seeking an extension to the period provided under Article 50.

Michael Gove then gives a statement to the House of Commons on preparations for leaving the EU.

The Government later introduces the European Union (Withdrawal Agreement) Bill to Parliament, with the Leader of the House setting out the proposed three-day timetable for the passage of the Bill.

22 October 2019

The EU (Withdrawal Agreement) Bill passes its Second Reading in the House of Commons by 329 votes to 299.

The subsequent Programme Motion setting out the timetable for the Bill is then rejected by 322 votes to 308.

Following this vote, the Prime Minister announces he will pause the legislation but will still aim to fulfil Brexit on 31 October, saying:

> The first consequence is that the Government must take the only responsible course and accelerate our preparations for a no-deal outcome. Secondly, however, I will speak to EU member states about their intentions and, until they have reached a decision, we will pause this legislation. Let me be clear: our policy remains that we should not delay and that we should leave the EU on 31 October. That is what I will say to the EU, and I will report back to the House. One way or another, we will leave the EU with this deal, to which this House has just given its assent, and I thank Members across the House for that hard-won agreement.

28 October 2019

After a meeting of EU Ambassadors, European Council President Donald Tusk announces that the EU27 have agreed to a Brexit extension to 31 January 2020, with the option for the UK to leave earlier if a deal is ratified.

The Prime Minister writes a letter to Donald Tusk, confirming the UK’s formal agreement to this extension.

29 October 2019 The Prime Minister moves a motion to hold an early General Election. The motion is defeated. [Although a majority voted in favour (299 votes to 70), this is below the required number of votes (434) under the Fixed-term Parliaments Act 2011.]

30 October 2019 Ministers approve the European Union (Withdrawal) Act 2018 (Exit Day) (Amendment) (No. 3) Regulations 2019, officially changing the date of “exit day” to 31 January 2020.

The government introduces the Early Parliamentary General Election Bill which sets the date for a General Election to take place on 12 December.

The Bill completes its Commons stages and moves to the Lords.

12-13 December 2019 Meeting of the European Council.

EU27 leaders discuss Brexit and call for a timely ratification and effective implementation of the withdrawal agreement. They also reconfirm their aim of establishing as close as possible a future relationship with the UK.

13 December 2019 In a statement outside 10 Downing St, Prime Minister Boris Johnson pledges ‘to get Brexit done’ by 31 January 2020.

19 December 2019 State Opening of Parliament. In the Queen’s Speech, Her Majesty says:
My Government’s priority is to deliver the United Kingdom’s departure from the European Union on 31 January. My Ministers will bring forward legislation to ensure the United Kingdom’s exit on that date, and to make the most of the opportunities that this brings for all the people of the United Kingdom.

Thereafter, my Ministers will seek a future relationship with the European Union based on a free trade agreement that benefits the whole of the United Kingdom. They will also begin trade negotiations with other leading global economies.

The Government publishes the European Union (Withdrawal Agreement) Bill.

15 December 2020 The House of Lords considers further Commons Reasons and Amendments to the UK Internal Market Bill.

17 December 2020 The UK Internal Market Bill receives Royal Assent and becomes an Act of Parliament: the United Kingdom Internal Market Act. The Withdrawal Agreement Joint Committee meets via video conference to endorse all formal decisions and other practical solutions related to the implementation of the Withdrawal Agreement, as of 1 January 2021. Parliament rises for the Christmas recess, with a warning that Members will be recalled should a Brexit deal need to be passed into law before 1 January.

20 December 2020 UK-EU negotiations go past the deadline set by the European Parliament to organise a consent vote on an agreement before the end of the year.

24 December 2020 The Brexit deal (the EU-UK Trade and Cooperation Agreement) is sealed between the two sides.

The Prime Minister gives a statement and says the deal allows the UK to “take back control”. Meanwhile, Ursula von der Leyen gives a statement on the deal – saying it is “fair and balanced” – and Michel Barnier also gives his remarks.

30 December 2020 The European Union (Future Relationship) Bill passes its Second Reading in the House of Commons by 521 votes to 73. The Bill then moves through the Report Stage and passes its Third Reading by 521 votes to 73.
The Bill passes its Second Reading and remaining stages in the House of Lords and is given Royal Assent, thus becoming an Act of Parliament: the European Union (Future Relationship) Act.

In the Scottish Parliament, MSPs vote against the UK-EU trade deal. Although the bill is not a matter for the Scottish Parliament, its Members vote to support a Scottish Government motion saying the agreement would cause “severe damage to Scotland’s environmental, economic and social interests”.

European Council President Charles Michel and European Commission President Ursula von der Leyen sign the Trade and Cooperation Agreement on behalf of the European Union. The Agreement is then sent to London and is signed by Prime Minister Boris Johnson on behalf of the UK.

31 December 2020  The Brexit transition period ends at 11pm. The UK leaves the EU single market and customs union and EU law ceases to apply to the UK.
